

No plans ready for relocation of center businesses

"A major problem is that a lot of you are up in the air as to what's really going to happen," said Jay Donovan, chairman of the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority.

Donovan on Friday morning met with Wilmington Center business representatives concerned about the proposed changes in the center. As a part of rebuilding Route 129, the state Dept. of Public Works (DPW) would take about 15 businesses and four homes. There would also be an impact on the remaining businesses.

The state proposal involves the levelling of Main Street and the construction of bridges to carry Route 62 over Main Street and the railroad tracks. There would also be two access roads constructed, one to serve as a ramp between Main and Church streets, the other running parallel to Main Street between Church Street and Middlesex Avenue.

Donovan said that his agency was working with the state Executive Office of Communities and Development (EOCD) to provide possible options for those impacted by the project.

Fran Mauriello of Diamond Crystal Salt Co. said the project would have a drastic effect on that firm, with the loss of a driveway and their receiving area.

"We're pretty seriously effected, and we don't know if we can operate the plant," he said. He further said that his firm had been deceived by the DPW, which had minimized the impact of the project.

He called the project a big overkill, and said that there would be a serious safety problem. Route 62 would be a bigger, wider road, feeding into Burlington Avenue, a narrow, winding road.

Anthony Gentile, chairman of the Wilmington Planning Board, asked if the project is a definite "go."

Donovan replied that it wouldn't be, if the town doesn't want it. The state has plenty of jobs needing money, he said, to be trying to force a project down the town's throat.

Gentile wanted to know how to stop it.

Donovan replied that concerns should be raised at an upcoming public hearing, which the DPW will hold in either December or January.

Donovan said that if the project were killed, there would still be the traffic problem.

He also said that the DPW looks at how to get traffic from point A to point B, and does not look at safety problems or relocation problems.

The WRA, he said, would attempt to help with the relocation.

Timing was the concern of one businessman. Would a new location be ready when the state took his present site, or would he be out of business for a year?

With the state planning a 1987 construction start for the project, it was clear to the group that planning was needed. The Chamber of Commerce will form a subcommittee to begin working on plans and options for relocating the center.

Boy injured

A six-year old boy is in fair condition at Children's Hospital in Boston following an accident on Woburn Street in Wilmington on Saturday afternoon. Jamie O'Connell of 3 Fitz Terrace, Tewksbury was riding this bicycle when he was struck by a car driven by Shirley Potter, 23, of Tower Hill Road, North Reading. The boy sustained multiple injuries, including two broken legs and a fractured skull. Wilmington police have not filed any charges against the driver.

Sewer hookup eyed for Concord Street project

Riverpark 93 is a proposed office park off Concord Street, mostly in North Reading, but partly in Wilmington, on the banks of the Ipswich River. Spaulding and Slye, of Burlington are the developers.

There are objections from Reading and from North Reading because there may be problems from the office park sewerage. The cost of a local plant would be significant, according to some authorities. The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (NWRA) is also interested. The Reading water department wells are 1500 feet away on the other side of the Ipswich River. Spaulding and Slye are, according to the Reading Chronicle, looking into the possibility of tying into existing sewer mains in either Reading or Wilmington. This would be an alternative to constructing the expensive and complex on-site sewer treatment plant.

Peter Johnson, a vice president of Spaulding and Slye is quoted as saying, at this time, it is just "an exploratory item." The Mass. Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) has asked the firm to look at the possibility of avoiding present plans.

It is impossible to hook up to the Metropolitan District Commission (MDC) sewer through North Reading. That town is not a member of the MDC.

Spaulding and Slye is looking into the possibility of connecting into a sewer main near the Meadowbrook Golf Course in Reading. If it is feasible, approval will be requested from the MWRA.

A second option is to tie into the Wilmington sewer, also a part of the MDC sewer system. To be feasible there would have to be new construction. A sewer main could be constructed from, say, Lowell Street to Concord Street, and then go under the Route 93 bridge to Riverpark. Such a sewer main could open up additional services in Wilmington.

Plans for any sewer development are currently on hold, pending the outcome of state environmental safeguards.

Environmental Affairs Secretary James Hoyt has recommended that the office park use either Reading or Wilmington sewers, rather than dump treated waste into the Ipswich River.

'86 start on housing construction

Construction is due to start in early 1986 on eight units of family housing, to be built by the Wilmington Housing Authority. The housing will be built as single family homes, four of which will be in the so-called "Lost Colony" area, near the North Reading line. The other units will be on King Street, Carey Street and two on St. Paul Street.

The housing authority had explored the possibility of exchanging some of the proposed lots for others, but was told by state officials that this would jeopardize the entire $1.92 million grant. The grant is for 32 units of elderly and handicapped housing as well as for the eight family units.

The idea of exchanging the lots had been raised because the lots are near one another, and housing authority members had promised to adhere to the concept of "scattered site" housing for the family units.

The units for elderly persons will be located in one two-story building behind the present housing on Deming Way. The building will include four units for handicapped persons, and four "congregate" units.

A $75,000 solar grant from the state is enabling the architects, Tully and Ingersoll, to adopt a "gallery" design for the building. All the units will face into a large glassed-in corridor, designed to collect solar heat.

Rainfall

Tuesday's rainstorm produced about three inches of rain in Wilmington. The official measurement is taken at 7 a.m. each morning at the Brown's Crossing pumping station. Tuesday morning's reading was 0.3 inches. Wednesday's reading was 2.9 inches.

Building committee moves on high school windows, alarms

by Arlene Surprenant

Two renovation issues formerly put "on hold" were brought up once again by the Permanent Building Committee (PBC) members at their meeting Monday night.

Because "time is really ticking away," PBC Chairman Diane Allan pushed for a time frame to replace all existing windows in the high school. Wilson Raines of Design Partnership said they were assured of a window wall grant of approximately $60,000 to cover construction costs and $10,000 to hire a consultant.

He told committee members a technical audit should first be done and, to this end, he had picked up the necessary application form, and would have it sent in by the end of the week.

Raines said he expected the audit to be done and reviewed by December and he hoped to have a consultant work out details in January. Then the job would go out to bid, contracts would be awarded, and materials ordered so that construction could begin in June.

Allan suggested they notify State Rep. James Miceli that "the ball is rolling again" so he could obtain the necessary funds.

Committeeman Bernard LaVita next suggested they send out letters to several firms seeking some concrete proposals on types of intrusive alarm systems available for the renovated high school. Members agreed to this suggestion and expect to go over the proposals at their Nov. 18 meeting.

At a previous meeting, WHS Principal Paul Fleming asked for a five-zone alarm system to cover the gymnasium, administrative and guidance area, business area, computer rooms, and the science labs. It was pointed out too, that the public must be allowed to enter the gym and auditorium without shutting down the rest of the system.

Supt. of Public Buildings Roy Mc Clanahan had asked that they tie in to the same central alarm system used by other town schools to provide 24-hour protection.

Allan felt strongly that they should move on this issue and have the system incorporated in specifications now, as some hard wiring may be needed, and it would be easier to do the work now to conceal the wires as much as possible.

Tewksbury leases town building to church minister

Tewksbury selectmen voted October 24 to allow a municipal building to be leased to William Porter, minister of the Tewksbury Church of Christ. The 4-0 vote, with Selectman Bill Hallisey not voting, will allow Rev. Porter to conduct Sunday services and other church activities in the youth center building on Livingston Street.

The decision comes after Town Counsel Charles Zaroulis told the board a week earlier that allowing a town building to be used for religious services would open that space for similar uses by other denominations or groups of people expressing ideas.

"What Mr. Zaroulis recently said was, according to the letter of the law, correct," Selectman Paul Sullivan said while offering to lease the building to Rev. Porter as an individual who could then "play shuffle board in there or have bible meetings."

Sullivan felt leasing the building to a person rather than a church shows the town does not favor one religious group over another and will allow the town greater discretion in determining who will be able to lease buildings.

According to Sullivan's motion, the lease with Rev. Porter will be on a tenancy at will basis to be renewed every six months unless the town gives him three months notice to vacate should the space be needed for other purposes.

Sullivan's motion also stipulated that the recreation commission's youth center committee determine rental payments and work out a schedule of when the building is available to him. Sullivan noted the youth center committee had concurred with Porter's request and suggested that any other requests to use space in the building be sent to them first.

The church is currently attempting to raise enough funds to obtain its own house of worship in Tewksbury. In the meantime, they have held Sunday services in the Center School on Pleasant Street and most recently in the Dewing School on Andover Street. Rev. Porter has said the Dewing school will soon no longer be available for Sunday use.

Selectmen were not opposed to the concept of allowing church services to be conducted in the building. Rather they apparently feared what type of precedent would be set if they okayed the request.

Zaroulis had said court rulings indicated that if the town allows one religious organization to use a town building, they can not deny use of that same building to another religious organization or other person wishing to express an opinion in a public forum.

Zaroulis said after the vote that if the town allows a municipal building to be used for religious expression, it may find itself hard pressed to deny access to that same building to any other religious organization. He also said allowing use of a town building to a person, such as Rev. Porter, may also mean that they would have to allow any other person the same courtesy.

Any group, under the freedom of speech provisions of the constitution, must be allowed to use the area upon request. It would also seem that the town would have to provide an area for the free expression of ideas.

"You have to apply the same standards, the same criteria, not only to religious organizations but to individuals also," Zaroulis said.

Rev. Porter had asked the board to consider his request "on its own merits" and not on the "outside chance that some other request might be made somewhere down the road" and had indicated the denying churches access to town building "in fact, seems discriminatory."

Selectman Chairman Tom Girard had said the precedent was already set because the church had used town buildings in the past and in fact had used the same building to conduct a week long summer bible school.

Selectman Bill Hallisey also said he had "no objection" to allowing the church to use the building, but that he was fearful that any group that met the definition of "religious group" whether their beliefs were commonly shared by most people or not may also ask and be granted use of town buildings. Because of that unclear outlook, Hallisey "regrettably" proposed the board deny Rev. Porter's request.

McGovern staff plan office hours

A staff member from the office of state Senator Patricia McGovern will meet with Tewksbury residents at the Tewksbury Library on Thursday, November 7, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Elizabeth Marad of Senator McGovern's constituent services staff will be available to answer citizens' questions, assist with government-related problems and listen to opinions on issues currently before the Legislature.

Senator McGovern represents Tewksbury in the state Senate.

Persons who would like to meet with Senator McGovern's staff but who are unable to attend the session can contact the senator's Boston office (phone: 722-1481; address: State House, Room 212, Boston, MA 02133).

Are you having problems with your electric bill?

Are there twenty homes in Wilmington where the owner is unhappy about his bills from the Reading Municipal Light Department because of errors or other possible faults?

John Reid of Lang Street has told the Town Crier that the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities wants to know of them. If those twenty home owners will make a public complaint, Reid says, the DPU will conduct a full investigation of the billing practices of the RMLD.

Reid has further stated that the DPU has completed its examination of the bills he had received from the RMLD, and has found that the statements he made, on October 3rd in the DPU public hearing have been substantiated. Reid made a strong impression at that hearing, held in the Town Hall, with a history of irregularities in the treatment of his accounts by the RMLD.

Persons with such a complaint should call either the office of the Town Manager, 658-3311, or the office of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce 657-7211.

A record

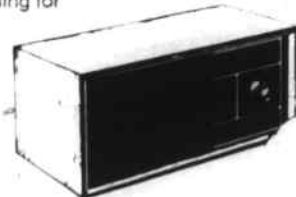

The Tewksbury Board of Appeals will set a new record on November 25 when it will hear 38 appeals in one evening. The hearing room in the town hall is guaranteed to be crowded.

The previous record was set a month before, on October 28 when the board had before it a total of 28 appeals.

Walk race set for November 11

An adult walk race will be held on November 11 at 1 p.m. starting at the Wilmington town common. The race is intended for both male and female participants over 18 years of age and is a fun event which will enable people to meet other town folk who enjoy the sport of walking.

The walk race is sponsored by the Wilmington Lions Club.

There will be drawings for turkeys as well as prizes awarded to the first male and female finishers.

This is a repeat of the July 4 walk race, so it is hoped that all those who participated in that race will also take part in this one and take along their mates.

Entry fee is $3.00 per person. For more information call Jim Buckley at 658-4151 or Tom Pazyra at 658-6640.

Executive session legal for bargaining with one, says assistant D.A.

Is it considered collective bargaining when one teacher or principal, along with the representative of the bargaining unit meets with the school committee? The question recently came up in in Wilmington, when the school committee met with high school principal Paul Fleming in executive session.

At a discussion before the Mass. Press Association at Suffolk University on Saturday, Middlesex County Assistant District Attorney Karen Kepler said that such a meeting would be legal, as long as the individual appeared with the representative of the bargaining unit.

In the discussion, Kepler touched on several points of the Open Meeting Law (OML), which regulates the use of executive sessions by governmental bodies in Massachusetts. Often problems arise because the law is either unclear or has limitations.

According to the law, executive sessions are primarily used for collective bargaining, interviewing candidates before they become semi-finalists (privacy rights decrease as candidates become finalists), discussing litigation and discussions touching on matters of personal rather than professional reputation.

Kepler told her attentive audience of publishers, editors, reporters and students that the press plays an important enforcement role and, in actuality, is the law's watchdog.

If a meeting is not posted 48 hours in advance, for example, or a governing body doesn't provide a meeting room large enough for the public, a complaint may be filed.

The OML does not provide for any personal fines or penalties for violation of the law, but actions taken in an illegal executive sessions may be rescinded.

Nash, Milot head up fund-raising drive

Two Wilmington businessmen have been named co-chairmen of the Major Gifts Division Committee for the Expansion '86 capital campaign at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington (RHCW).

They are David Milot, vice president of Brewster's and Edwin G. Nash, president of E.G. Nash Associates, Inc.

Since it opened its doors seven years ago last month, the RHCW has recorded significant increases in the number of patients treated with a total of 82,000 individuals treated to date. In the past two years, patient visits have increased 30 percent.

These increases have led to overcrowding at the Salem Street facility, which, in turn, has led to the launching of expansion '86, an extensive construction program which will transform the RHCW's lower level into patient treatment areas and physicians' offices.

Under Project I, slated for a spring completion, treatment areas and physicians' offices will be expanded in Rehabilitation Services, Ophthalmology, and the Pediatric Adolescent Unit. Project I will cost an estimated $649,000.

Project II, expected to begin in September, 1986, will provide for an expanded Health Records Department, employee cafeteria, and receiving area. Its estimated cost is $351,000.

Under the direction of the Choate-Symmes Development Office, a corps of volunteers is soliciting pledges from hospital family, business and industry, and individuals in anticipation of the campaign goal of $300,000.

As co-chairman of the Major Gifts Division, Milot and Nash oversee volunteers who are seeking pledges of $5000 or more from community businesses, organizations and individuals. Donations are tax deductible to the full extent of the law and may be paid over a three to five year period.

Milot said he is committed to the goals of the health center and is eager to lend his expertise to the Expansion '86 campaign. He opened Brewster's in Wilmington in 1969, and is a member of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

Emphasizing the need for more space at the RHCW, Nash said that he is optimistic that the Wilmington area will be very supportive of the capital campaign. A Wilmington resident, Nash is a past president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, a member of the board of directors of the North Suburban YMCA, and vice president of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

Working with Milot and Nash on the Major Gifts Committee are Wilmington businessmen Fred Cain, Chrysler-Plymouth; Sanford Carlisle, Diamond Crystal Salt Co.; Walter J. Kaminski, Avco; Robert P. Knoettner, Custom Line Products; Alfred Materas, Jr., Avco; and Dennis Sokol, Altron.

More information about the Expansion '86 campaign can be obtained by calling Kenneth D. Chisholm, vice president for Development at the RHCW, 657-3910, ext. 519.

25 years ago

The November 10, 1960 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Businessmen interested in forming a Chamber of Commerce were to meet at Middlesex County National Bank on Tuesday.

Lawrence Kelley of Concord Street and Patrick Leonard of Shawheen Avenue were appointed special policemen by Town Manager Cecil Lancaster.

Ballots were cast by 5184 Wilmington voters in the national election, 91.26 percent of the 5306 registered.

A sandpile taking up space in the North Wilmington parking lot, left by the town's highway department was subject of concern in the selectmen's meeting. The parking lot cost the town $14,000 and, according to selectmen, should be used for something other than storing sand.

For about 60 weeks, the Wilmington Rotary Club had perfect attendance.

Wilmington was one of 32 places in the state that observed the time honored tradition and opened its polls at 6 a.m. Three cities - Boston, Chicopee and Waltham and next door Burlington also opened their polls at six. Election Day, 1960 was the coldest day so far that fall - 18 degrees when the polls opened.

Dear Larz:

Our community is saddened by the death of Mrs. Hedy Michaels. As an elementary school teacher for many years, she touched the young lives of hundreds of Wilmington children. On a personal level, it was Mrs. Michaels who opened our oldest child's world to the wonder of reading. That is one of the most precious gifts a teacher can give, and we are grateful.

When we heard of Mrs. Michael's accident, my husband and I realized we needed to share this sad news with our children. Although death is a part of living, it is not easy for parents and teachers to introduce grieving into the awareness of children. I would like to share some information from a program called "Good Grief." It was a helpful resource to our family. I hope it may be of help to others.

1. Tell children what happened in words they can understand.

2. Since children sometimes feel directly or indirectly responsible for a death, address these fears and fantasies even if they are unspoken.

3. Every death that touches a child personally also raises specific questions about such things as accidents, illness, how the body works, or rituals surrounding death and mourning. Try to answer these questions for your child or ask others for assistance in addressing these issues.

4. Children grieve differently from adults depending on their stage of development and personality. Often the sadness of children is short-lived. Try not to misinterpret their apparent casualness or mischievousness as indifference. Kids need to know that any feelings are O.K. and that you will try to help them express those feelings in ways that won't get them in trouble.

5. An informal or formal commemoration of the person who has died can nurture constructive grieving. Children who were close to the person may want to take part in the planning. Attendance at a commemorative should be voluntary. By explaining what will happen, children can decide whether or not to attend.

Mrs. Michaels will be missed. Perhaps it is fitting to honor her memory and commitment to children by helping our children to grow in emotional well-being through constructive grieving. By learning to deal sensitively with death, we nurture our humanity as individuals and as a community. It is in this spirit that I write.

Sincerely,
Stephanie Meegan
P.S. "The Good Grief Program" offers useful information, resources and skills training for adults who want to help groups of children when a friend dies. More information is available by writing The Junior League of Boston, 117 Newbury Street, Boston, MA 02116, or by calling 536-9640.

Dear Larz:

I would like to call your attention to an arithmetical error that unfortunately appeared in a flyer distributed to Tewksbury residents last Friday by the members of the Tewksbury Teachers Association.

The flyer referred to the $250,000 spent each year by the Tewksbury School Department to bus 611 students to out-of-town private schools, and asked the question: "Should we be spending $1,200 a year to bus each private school student?"

We have corrected subsequent versions of the flyer to reflect the actual cost of $409 per student. We regret the error, and can only attribute it to the fatigue associated with early morning authorship.

We received a phone call from an angry resident, calling our attention to the error, and we assure him - as we wish to assure your readers - that the error was unintentional. As educators, we were more than a bit red-faced to realize an error in basic computation.

But let's not lose sight of the point we were trying to make. The $250,000 figure was accurate, and it is the key figure. At a time when Tewksbury teachers - who are already among the lowest paid in the Merrimack Valley, and who earn on average $2,000 per year less than the average teacher in this state - are out on strike for a fair salary increase, we believe it is entirely appropriate to question the town's priorities. It seems unfair to us that the school committee can claim on one hand not to have enough to pay our salaries, while spending a quarter of a million dollars to bus private school students out of town.

Richard Mousseau, Pres.
Tewksbury Teachers Assn.

Dear Larz:

Unless Tewksbury teachers haven't been doing their homework, then how is it that their figures don't add up? According to "The Busing Question," item number two from the Tewksbury Teacher's Association's "A message to the residents of Tewksbury," a paper handed out to the home residences of Tewksbury, they state that more than $250,000 per year is spent to bus Tewksbury's 600 private school students. This is close to the actual figure. Yet, in the same paragraph, they ask, "Should we be spending $1,200 a year to bus each private school student?" Simple math shows us that if there are 600 students, and if we are spending $1,200 per student to bus each one to his/her school, then the actual annual expense would be $720,000! A mere error of $470,000! If Tewksbury teachers sat down to do their homework, then item number two wouldn't have even come into question.

Every taxpayer resident of Tewksbury expects basic services from the town; busing students to their schools is one of those basic services. Would it be fair to the residents of a town to ask the people to sacrifice having their streets plowed so that the budget would allow for garbage collection? Then is it fair for the teachers to question the basic rights of Tewksbury residents for their own benefit?

The teachers of Tewksbury expect the school committee to treat them fairly. Then let the teachers act fairly. They who are concerned about Tewksbury's priorities should concern themselves with their own. Are they striking for a better salary or is it a campaign against busing private school children?

Rebecca Leitner

Dear Larz:

We have read your account of the hearing before the Tewksbury Board of Appeals, last week. We are referring to the "water slide" case, as the Town Crier called it.

It is a water tunnel that was proposed, not a water slide. There is a difference. A tunnel is completely enclosed.

But this is to express our regret at the manner of the proceedings. We were attending a board of appeals hearing which was conducted in the manner of a site plan review of the planning board. At no time did the appeals board hearing properly address the question.

We hope that we can make ourselves understood. We hope that there will be an opportunity for the planning board to conduct a hearing, and after that for the board of appeals to do so, in reconsideration.

YAGO's Water Tunnels are a place for good clean fun. It is our hope to locate on that site, which is properly zoned, and which can afford for the people of Tewksbury not only family entertainment, but an opportunity for a profitable enterprise for the town.

We intend to visit with the neighbors, and discuss the questions in an atmosphere that is peaceful and quiet. We do have proposals which we believe the people of the Town of Tewksbury would like to hear.

Yours very truly,
Richard Benson

Dear Larz:

It seems like everyone we talk to lately has the same complaint but as usual nothing gets done about it.

The big question is...is our water safe to drink? Not just today or for this month, but over a long period of time?

When we first moved to Wilmington 19 years ago we used to brag to our friends and relatives from out of town about the wonderful water we had. It was clear and clean and tasted great!

Well, no more! As a matter of fact, we can't even drink it at all!

I know I speak for my family and at least most of the residents of McDonald Road, if not the North Wilmington area in voicing my complaints and concerns.

When we noticed the dishes becoming orange along with the inside of our dishwasher and our washing machine after only a year or two of use, we were concerned. The bathroom tiles, once beige are now rust colored and require much scrubbing each week just to remove the rusty scum, not to mention the sinks, toilets and tub - and then they still never look clean!

Then our hot water heater rusted out after only four years of use. The dishwasher and washing machine soon followed!

Now, the problem is not just the rust color - the odor is so bad that we can't even take a shower or bath or brush our teeth without becoming nauseous. Then the whole house smells terrible after a shower, clothes of dishwashing or general cleaning!

Now, if that's not enough there's even more...a glass of water from the tap is pure yellow (I know you wouldn't drink it!) and when left in a cup for a few minutes, it turns black!

These are not just isolated instances, this is our drinking water - every day (and we have a filter system to help eliminate color and odor!) I'd hate to see others' water who don't have a filter!

Now, to help combat a small amount of these problems, we also have these added expenses and inconveniences:

1. A filter system; 2. the filters to go in it; 3. water softeners; 4. rust remover to remove the globs of rust on our clothes weekly; 5. water - to drink and cook with; 6. Then we have to pay for the water that we can't even use - to put the frosting on the cake.

Water, we know, we've heard it all: "you're on the end of the line, we're going to put a water treatment plant in North Wilmington in three or four years, etc., etc., etc."

But, what do we do in the meantime? We keep hearing "It's safe to drink," but those same people won't drink it when offered a sample. Is it really safe? Or - will we end up with health problems like dozens of other communities who have had chemical and other seepage into their wells?

Why didn't Wilmington provide a better system when adding all the big industry to our small town? Of course the water system is no longer adequate or safe!!

We are entitled to safe drinking water now and in the future. What has to be done to insure this and when? It better be soon before it's too late and the town of Wilmington will be saying "If only we..."

Thank you,
Bob and Pat Wesinger

Gas tank replacement cost $180K

In 1987, a new law will go into effect. That law says that any gas station with tanks in the soil that are over 20 years old will have to remove those tanks. New tanks will have to be installed, if the gas station is to remain in business.

One gas station operator who will have no worries on that score is Doug Andersen of North Wilmington. Doug has just reopened his station, and is now "the man who wears the star."

Andersen has a new contract to sell gas for Texaco, from brand new gas tanks just installed at his D&D gas station. It is quite a tale. It is an expensive tale, too.

There were indications last September that something might be wrong with the tanks. They were unable to pass a test known as the Kent Test.

Gulf Oil, with whom Andersen had a contract, would take out the old tanks, they said, but would not replace them. That was when Andersen got in touch with Texaco.

The old tanks were taken out. Tests showed that there was gas in the soil, gasoline which seems to have been spilled during deliveries made over the years.

To paraphrase the late Senator Dirksen, it was "a gallon here, and a gallon there," and pretty soon it mounted up. The soil was saturated with gas. Yet there were no leaks in the underground tanks.

All the soil, tons of it, had to be dug up and trucked to a place in Rhode Island. The cost was a mere $60 a ton.

Water, too, had to be taken out of the soil. Pumps were put to work that pumped 18,000 gallons a day, and they pumped for 10 days. All that water had to be transported to a place in Connecticut. The cost was 25 cents a gallon, plus trucking fees.

The costs of removing the old tanks along with the soil and water, is said to have exceeded $120,000. Andersen believes that Gulf Oil will foot that bill.

Last year, the town of Wilmington spent nearly a half-million dollars when oil tanks at the high school were discovered to be leaking.

Andersen will have to pay for the installation of the new tanks, a price which will include money for blasting of underground rock.

He doesn't know what the costs will be, but estimates them to be over $60,000.

But now Doug owns the tanks. They are double-wall fibreglas tanks, which should never leak. They are built and installed according to modern specifications.

The station has reopened, and a Texaco sign has replaced the Gulf sign. The station had been a Gulf station since it opened in 1957.

Doug's customers appear to like the new service, he reports. He hopes so. He has a lot of bills to pay.

Finemaster has no mercy

In his personal and business life, Fred Cain, Wilmington automobile dealer, is a pleasant and peaceful individual. As a member of the Wilmington Rotary Club, Fred is a person without mercy, especially when he has been named to be the club fine master.

Roger Hayden of Hayden Mica in Wilmington is the type of person who can always rise to the occasion. Just try to fine Roger, in Rotary, for any imagined sin. Roger will, in his slow and deliberate manner, provide an excuse which is both hilarious and the product of a fertile imagination.

Several years ago Roger was without a Rotary badge for several weeks. That was a terrible state of affairs. A Rotarian without a badge can be fined $1.00 for each and every occasion.

He had a hilarious excuse. Roger thought that the club's Rotary badges looked dingy. He had sent his to a jeweler, to have it burnished.

A couple of weeks later Roger had a badge which was well burnished. He told the club in an eloquent phrase that he was improving the image of the club by his actions.

On October 30th Roger appeared at the Rotary meeting without a badge. Fred Cain was named fine master for the day. Fred attempted to fine Roger $1.00 for not wearing a badge. Roger, as could be expected, rose to the occasion.

It was a long tale. Roger had been in a supermarket. Ahead of him was a young lady with a child. The child was attempting to pick up everything that glistened. The lady as a consequence was being overworked.

With majestic pauses and suitable phrases Roger went on to say that he took pity on that child. He gave it his Rotary badge. It became a glistening toy. It was a good, deed Roger said in a deadpan manner. The lady was then able to complete her shopping.

A dozen seats from Roger sat Ralph Swanson, of Raffi & Swanson. Ralph is now district governor. That fact would accord him some mercy from fellow Rotarians. He gets none.

Ralph, too, was without a badge. Fred tried to inflict a $1.00 fine. Like Roger, Ralph rose to the occasion.

He had been in that supermarket.

He had seen Roger give his nice shining badge to the child.

It was, indeed a worthy act. It made the child happy. Ralph had seen it all, and then watched Roger as he left the supermarket.

After that the lady began to react. She had no Rotary badge, and the child did have one. Out of pity for the lady Ralph Swanson gave her his Rotary badge.

Fred Cain was a man without mercy. Ralph Swanson was also fined $1.00.

Tewksbury holds voter registration

The Tewksbury Board of Registrars has scheduled a voter registration session for Friday, November 15, 1985 from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. at the town clerk's office at the town hall.

Elizabeth Carey, town clerk, informs residents who have not registered to vote that this is the last day and hour to register so as to be able to vote in the upcoming November 25 Special Town Meeting.

Residents may also register to vote during regular office hours, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 8:30.

It's YOUR Money

Your Social Security

There is nothing automatic about Social Security. You need to make sure your contributions have been credited to you, find out what benefits are available to you, file a claim for them and then make sure you get what's due you.

Check your Social Security records every 3 years. Your benefits may depend on the accuracy of your account. The SSA office has a "Request for Statement of Earnings" form.

Who qualifies? The long list includes most people over 62, many workers under 62 who are disabled and certain dependents of the retired or disabled. The survivors or a worker who dies qualify for a lump-sum death benefit, and many of them can get monthly benefits as well. Your local Social Security office has a lot of helpful information.

Get your qualifying documents in order — birth or baptismal records, plus your most recent W-2 form — and apply for benefits a few months before your 62 birthday. That way, your checks will start promptly and you can be enrolled in Medicare as soon as you turn 65.

Plans to develop cluster subdivision in Tewksbury to go before public

Plans to build 17 homes in a 24.7 acre cluster subdivision at the end of Bradford Road, Tewksbury will go before the public on November 25. Plans showing the proposal were officially submitted to the planning board October 28.

The plans call for an extension of Bradford Road to allow the development of 17 single family housing lots. Project Engineer Dick Cuoco said the developer hopes to build the subdivision in a cluster fashion.

The board first saw plans for both a conventional one acre subdivision and a cluster type subdivision plan on September 23.

Under the town's cluster subdivision zoning bylaw, the house lots would be at least 20,000 square feet in size, or just less than a half acre each. The undeveloped land would be turned over to the town as conservation land.

The current plans call for the roadway to be extended in a looped fashion around a large treed island. There will also be a buffer area of trees to separate the last house lots on the current Bradford Road from the newer smaller lots in the cluster subdivision. There will also be a 40 foot wide path that will double as a drainage easement and as a path to provide the public with access to the Shawsheen River shores.

The concept behind cluster subdivisions is to trade off open space for the ability to build homes on smaller lots. Rather than using all the land for roads and buildings, the smaller lots allows the town to retain a rural look by preserving open green space that can never be built on. Also under the bylaw, the reduced sized lots in a cluster subdivision are assessed at the same rate as those in a conventional once acre lot subdivision.

In order to build a cluster subdivision four of the five planning board members must approve of the plans. The planners weigh such factors as whether the reduced size lots will leave open space to protect town well fields, river basins, waterways and ponds.

The proposed Bradford Road extension subdivision would abut the Shawsheen River. Some of the land along the river shore would be part of the overall 10.3 acres the developer would deed to the town as conservation land under the cluster plan.

Planner Joseph Doherty questioned the plan in September, but said recently that revisions have made it a better proposal. He questioned approving a cluster for the site because the developer built one acre house lots on the existing Bradford Road and told planners several years ago he would continue the development if he were not required to build a turnaround at the end of the current Bradford Road.

Doherty also questioned allowing the appearance of the neighborhood to change from one acre lots to 20,000 square foot lots on the same road. But Planners Robert Sullivan and Robert Fowler have said that there are areas in town where lots jump from one acre in size down to 10,000 square feet on the same road and that granting a cluster subdivision for that parcel would preserve parts of the Shawsheen River watershed area.

Planner George Donovan, however, said he felt the plan did not present the "ideal cluster" subdivision, but was unable to offer suggestions to improve the plan. Donovan said he has not seen the type of design that was promised when the town adopted the cluster subdivision zoning bylaw and questioned whether the cluster bylaw was becoming a way to build on smaller lots in wet areas.

Planner Wilfred Lambert told Donovan the amount of land involved in the proposal did not allow the developer to include the creative types of design that were promised when cluster zoning was first allowed.

Office-retail building proposed in S. Tewksbury

Plans to build a 13,000 square foot office/retail building on the corner of Main Street and Salem Road went before the Tewksbury Planning Board October 29. The plans call for a multi-family house and small auto body shop currently on the triangle of land bordered by Salem Road, Main Street and South Street to be torn down and replaced with a single story building holding six to seven units of 1500 to 1800 square feet each.

Access to the site will be from both Main Street and Salem Road, said project Engineer Dick Cuoco. He also said the parking lot will provide 76 parking spaces, the exact number of spaces required by zoning bylaws for a 13,000 square foot office/retail building.

Some 23 percent of the lot will remain undeveloped, but landscaped. Included in that is a small depression or "bowl" shaped piece of land near the Main Street entrance which will hold drainage waters in flash flood conditions and store it until it can slowly drain into pipes running under Main Street.

Also included in the landscaping is a green strip around the entire perimeter of the site and a string of shrubs along the back and sides of the building to shield its view from neighboring homes and the Trahan School.

The back of the building will face Salem Road and will be visible from the Trahan School. At the planner's request, the developer agreed to plant trees to shield a service or loading zone from view of the school.

Eagle Scout

Randall Lennox receives his Eagle Scout badge from his mother Janet Lennox during Eagle Scout Court of Honor. The Eagle Scout is the highest rank in Boy Scouting.

Eagle Scout honor for Randall Lennox

Randall S. Lennox was awarded the Eagle Badge, in an Eagle Court of Honor held in the church hall at the Tewksbury First Baptist Church on October 26. The highest rank to be held by a Boy Scout was awarded to him eight years after he joined Scouting.

Randy joins 35 other Eagle Scouts in Troop 41, sponsored by the First Baptist Church.

He earned all the skill awards that are offered in Scouting, and for his Eagle Service Award project he organized a group of Scouts and adults and washed all the windows of the Baptist Church and the Parish Hall.

He is at present a member of Troop 118 in West Brookfield where he is the Senior Patrol Leader. The son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lennox, Randall is a junior at the Pathfinder Regional Vocational High School, where he majors in electronics.

Wilmington seeks volunteers for school building councils

The Wilmington School Committee is seeking interested community persons, age 18 or over, who wish to serve on building improvement councils for the Shawshen, Woburn Street or Wildwood elementary schools, to decide how to expend funds to improve school programs in each elementary school, according to Chapter 188 of the Acts of 1985 of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Persons serving on a council must not be a parent of a child at the elementary school for which they serve.

Those serving must agree to participate as a member of the building improvement council with three teachers, two parents of children in one elementary school, and the school principal (chairperson) at two to six scheduled meetings.

Persons wishing to be considered for appointment by the Wilmington School Committee as a non-parent member under the new Chapter 188 legislation should send a letter of interest to:

Anthony Accardi, Jr., Chairman
Wilmington School Committee
159 Church Street
Wilmington, MA 01887
on or before Nov. 13, 1985. For further information, call 658-6623.

Marlene Blonigen
weds John Moran

Marlene Marie Blonigen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Silverius Blonigen of Crescent Street, Wilmington became the bride of John Edward Moran, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Moran of Patricia Circle on October 5.

The altar of St. Thomas Church before which Fr. Kearney performed the late morning ceremony was adorned with baskets of blue and white carnations.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was radiant in a full length, white satin gown featuring a long train, brocade lace bodice and long sleeves trimmed with embroidered pearls. Her veil fell from a pearl headpiece with waist length lace. She carried a bouquet of silk red and white roses made by her aunt.

Diane Blonigen, sister of the bride served as maid of honor while the attendants included Elaine and Bonnie Blonigen, sisters of the bride, Nancy Moran, sister of the groom, Patty Murphy, sister of the groom and Mary Simmer, cousin of the bride. Renee Spino, also a cousin of the bride acted as flower girl.

The maid of honor wore a full length off-the shoulder taffeta gown in medium blue, blue silk roses in her hair and carried a lace fan decorated with blue silk roses and carnations. The flowers and the fans were also fashioned by the bride's aunt.

The bridesmaids were attired in light blue taffeta gowns styled like that of the maid of honor. They also wore blue silk roses in their hair and carried lace fans with blue roses.

Tim Moran served his brother as best man while ushering duties were in charge of Bob and Gary Blonigen, brothers of the bride, Bob Murphy, brother-in-law of the groom, Rick Fudge and Peter Spino, both close friends of the groom. The bride's nephew Matthew Blonigen served as ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at Sons of Italy Hall where music for dancing was provided by the Starlite Band and Brenda Blonigen, sister-in-law of the bride circulated the guest book.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Blonigen chose a royal blue chiffon knee length dress trimmed with satin while the mother of the groom wore a rose three piece suit of chiffon and a camisole of brocade lace.

For traveling the new Mrs. Moran chose a cream colored silk dress with an orchid corsage.

Following a wedding trip to Aruba, the couple is now living on Patricia Circle, Wilmington.

The bride is a graduate of Wilmington High School and Merrimack College currently employed by Analog as a marketing secretary.

Her husband a graduate of Wilmington High School and Northeastern University is a self-employed owner of Downeast Surf and Turf Inc.

An officers' meeting will be held this Friday, November 8 at 1 p.m.

The Golden Age Club (GAC) monthly meeting will be held next Tuesday, November 12 at 1:30 p.m. Attorney Debbie Thompson from Legal Services of the Merrimack Valley will be our guest speaker. Ms. Thompson will talk about the new DRG, Medicare Diagnostic Related Groups system and related topics. Due to our guest speaker, bingo will not be played this month.

We wish to inform our members that several incidents have occurred at our local shopping centers which involve knocking down of elderly persons and the stealing of their handbags. We urge you all to be careful at these locations. If possible, shop with a relative or friend.

Effective November 15, New Year's Eve tickets will go on sale to non-members.

A GAC day trip to Augustine's and the Ann & Hope Shopping Mall is being planned for Thursday, November 21.

As you may have noticed we do plan ahead. The GAC will conduct a day trip to the Beacon in N.H. for a St. Patrick's Day part on March 13, 1986. The trip will be filled with a full Irish menu and festivities. Payment will now be accepted for this strip. A few seats are still available.

For further information on the above trips, one may call Denis DeDeo at 851-5949 or 851-7690.

Tewksbury library friends offer trip to Renoir exhibit

The Arts on the Move series sponsored by the Friends of the Tewksbury Public Library will continue this fall. The Library Friends recently announced plans for bus excursions.

On Sunday morning, November 17, the group will tour the Renoir exhibition at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts. This exhibition highlights almost 100 of the artist's most celebrated works, in its only American showing. Paintings have been drawn from 19 private collections and 37 museums, including the unequalled Renoir holdings found in the Musée d'Orsay in Paris. The cost of $8.00 per person includes the recorded tour and round-trip transportation. Also, the Friends of the Tewksbury Library plan to repeat last year's tremendously popular excursion to see the Nutcracker Ballet at Boston's Wang Center. The trip will be made on Sunday, December 29 for a matinee performance. Tickets for the Nutcracker are $16 per person.

The Arts on the Move series is partially funded by a grant from the Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council, as administered by the Tewksbury Arts Lottery Council.

Good Neighbor Energy Fund offered by Reading Light

Needy persons having trouble paying their electric bills this winter may be able to get a helping hand from the Good Neighbor Energy Fund, thanks to the efforts of the Salvation Army and the Reading Municipal Light Dept. (RMLD).

The state Department of Public Utilities (DPU) has urged utilities to participate in this state-wide voluntary effort to help those people whose income falls just above the poverty level. The RMLD has lent its support in promoting the program, which will be administered by the Salvation Army between Dec. 1 and April 30.

The Reading Municipal Light Board voted its support at its meeting on Oct. 21.

The Good Neighbor Energy Fund will help pay utility bills of people whose income is within certain limits of the federal guidelines for poverty, and who are unable to pay for fuel delivery or have a 60-day outstanding gas or electric bill. It will not duplicate current fuel assistance efforts. Grants will not exceed $200 per household, and will be paid directly by the utility.

The RMLD will include an explanatory bill stuffer and one pre-addressed return envelope along with its regular billings in November. The contribution will go directly to the Salvation Army. Additional pre-addressed envelopes will be mailed to persons who call 944-1340 and ask for the credit department.

Four semi-finalists for Wilmington asst. superintendent

by Arlene Surprenant

The field of candidates for assistant superintendent of schools in Wilmington has been narrowed down to four viable prospects, according to Superintendent Robert Horan. Two or three of these semi-finalists will be brought before the school committee at its next meeting, Nov. 13 for interviews and final recommendations by Horan.

Henry Dembrowski, principal of the Marblehead Middle School; Kenneth DeBenedictis, principal of the Col. John Robinson School in Westford; Dr. Barbara Hunt, principal of the Daniel Butler Elementary School in Belmont, and Dr. Fred Sarke, principal of the Nathaniel Morton School in Plymouth are the four semi-finalists.

Each candidate was interviewed on Monday night by a screening panel made up of parents, teachers, principals and administrators. Two teams led by WHS Principal Paul Fleming and Special Needs Direc-

Cleo Fredette, used a carefully planned procedure developed by Horan to assess candidates according to experience, appearance, and ability to handle the job.

Qualifications for the position including having a Master's Degree plus 30 or more college credits, state certification, a minimum of eight years elementary experience, leadership qualities, and course work in several administrative fields, including familiarity with the use of computers.

The successful candidate will be asked to undertake a long list of duties. These include the creation of an in-service training program to help staff members grow professionally, the coordination of the elementary social studies and math programs and the gifted and talented program, and the evaluation of the various educational programs and testing systems.

Wildcats set for tournament

Wilmington's High School field hockey girls are gearing up for their first tournament game later this week.

Wilmington Rec coming events

Thanks for the horrors!
The Recreation Department and the hundreds of costumed creatures that enjoyed the 17 annual Horribles Parade thank the following civic minded contributors: Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Selectmen, Wiberg Squmpkin Factory, Rocco's Sweetheart, Dunkin Donuts, Woburn Street School PAC, Sciarrappa Farm and Town Employees Association.

New York City
There are still a few seats available for Wilmington Recreation's second bus trip to New York City on December 7 and 8. Call the Recreation Department at 658-4270 for more information.

Mens gym night
The Recreation Department in Wilmington will soon be starting its popular mens' gym night program. It will be held on Wednesday evenings from 7:45 to 9:45 in the North Intermediate gym. The program will begin November 13. Cost per session is $3.00.

Basketball notes
The Recreation Department is finalizing plans for the upcoming hoop season. Boys and girls between eight and 15 who are not registered should do so immediately. Team formation for the WRBL will take place over the weekend of November 23 and 24. To register for the WRBL, parents must visit the Rec office in the Town Hall weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. or make special arrangements over the phone, 658-4270.

TMHS girls finish strong

The Redmen field hockey girls recorded a scoreless tie against Methuen in their last home game of the season last week. Tewksbury forwards Karen Smart, Lynn Ploof, Kim Dziadosz, Kelly Byrnes and Tracey Danner combined for 11 shots on goal. Sophomore goalie Cathy Driscoll made 12 saves in the game.

The Tewksbury girls won their last game of the season against Greater Lowell, 3-1. Greater Lowell jumped out to an early lead by scoring 17 minutes into the first half. The Redmen came back to tie the game with a goal from Chris Blake.

In the second half leading scorer Karen Smart scored her ninth goal of the season and assisted on the third goal scored by Lynn Ploof. Playing well on the defensive end were Chris Kearns, Sue Pollard and Lori Nunziato.

The Redmen finished the season with a 5-7-6 record. Seniors on the team included co-captains Sue

Pollard and Missy Glencross, Chris Kearns, and Karen Smart. Players selected for the All-Star game were Karen Smart, Karen Corbett, and Lynn Ploof. Karen Smart ended her season by scoring a goal for the A Team in the All-Star game.

Cats freeze Rangers, 24-22

The Wilmington High School football offense is back thanks to a new attack that features head coach Ed Harrison's economy sized version of William "The Refrigerator" Perry.

Facing a 2-4 season with the prospect of going 2-5 after a tough game with the stingy Methuen Rangers, Harrison moved senior guard Peter Campbell to the backfield to add blocking and power running and help often overworked senior back Tony Cutone.

The strategy paid off nicely for Harrison and his still-gritty Cats, as Campbell, Cutone and a good dosage of hell-to-the-wind offense pushed Wilmington (3-4) to a 24-22 upset of the Rangers at Alumni Field Saturday.

Campbell finished with 40 yards rushing, including 23 to set up a key Cutone third quarter touchdown.

Cutone had yet another outstanding game to lay claim to his being the best back in the MVC, finishing with 88 yards on 25 carries and touchdown runs of four and two yards.

Quarterback Chris Athanasia contributed mightily to the victory, completing 5 of 10 passes for 101 yards that included a 25 yard touchdown strike to receiver John Desforge. Athanasia also scored on a one yard bolt over the middle.

The victory comes after consecutive losses to Andover, Lawrence and Lawrence Central Catholic. The Wildcats were shutout by the two Lawrence schools 37-0 on consecutive weeks, and things looked bleak until once again Wilmington's players and coaching staff came up with an effort that is typical of WHS football.

Friday night (7:30) the Cats travel to Lowell (5-3) to battle the Jekyll and Hyde Red Raiders.

Tewksbury (7-0) had best be wary of all three of its' upcoming opponents (Billerica, Andover and Wilmington), and although the TMHS focus is on Billerica, the Wildcats may be the toughest of a very tough three lot that closes out the Redmen regular season.

Youth Soccer League

The Wilmington Youth Soccer Association will possibly be entering teams this spring in the Middlesex Soccer League for both boys and girls under 16. To be eligible, the player must not have reached his/her 16th birthday as of January 1, 1986. The games are played on Sunday beginning in early April and running through mid-June.

The girls play at 1 p.m. and the boys at 2:30. Those interested who have not yet informed the league of their interest, or those with questions are asked to call Kip Wheeler after 3 p.m. at 658-8879 before November 16. The fee will be $25-$30.

MEET JOAN UNGER

Joan began her career in real estate at Realty World Forest Conant Realty four and one-half years ago. For the past two years she has been a member of the Million Dollar Club. Joan and her family of six live in Tewksbury. In the past they have lived in every corner of the United States, because of her husband's Naval career. Their love for New England brought them back. First to Sunapee, New Hampshire where they owned and operated a resort for several years, then to Tewksbury where Joan has been active in town as a volunteer teacher's aide, Summer Church School leader, Brownie leader, Rainbow Girl Advisor, and this year she will be president of the Tewksbury Garden Club.

When you are unable to find Joan in the Tewksbury Realty World Forest Conant office, look for her in her garden at her home.

Wildcats top Rangers

Senior back John McLaughlin (30) teamed with Peter Campbell and Tony Cutone to spark the Wilmington High School backfield Saturday.

Back on track

WHS senior running back Tony Cutone found plenty of room to run in Saturday's 24-22 Wildcat upset of Methuen.

Redmen, Wildcats stage superb battle

Last week's end of the season showdown meet between the Tewksbury and Wilmington High School cross country teams produced the best there is in high school cross country running. The Tewksbury girls team came out on top, while the boys' team lost a close contest. But every runner ran his or her personal best and came away from the meet with a lot to be satisfied about.

In the girls meet, Wilmington's Andrea Hayden, one of the top runners in the state, ran away from the field and set a new course record for the TMHS layout. Her time for 2.8 miles was superb 17:31.

Second place was a close contest between Kristen McCowan of Wilmington and Tewksbury's Peggy Forsyth. McCowan won out, but Peggy led a string of Tewksbury girls who captured the next six places. Paula Torode, Krissie Connor, Renee Juchnevics, Kristin Conley and Lisa Thayer took places three through eight and locked up a Tewksbury victory.

So strong was Tewksbury's team effort, that Justine Short, Chrissy Frotten, Kim Marshall, Alice Aspell, Amy DiGiorgio and Claire Tremblay all finished ahead of Wilmington's number four runner. Justine and Claire made remarkable improvements in this race, cutting a full minute off their previous best times for the course.

The boys' race saw some mighty performances by the Tewksbury runners, but it was just not quite enough to pull off an upset win.

Four seconds would have made the difference, since second place was lost by less than a second and seventh place was lost by three seconds, and those places were the crucial spots.

Bob Busch ran the best race of his fine season by hanging tough with Wilmington's ace Brian Ribeiro. Bob cut his time by a respectable 12 seconds, but he had to settle for the runner-up slot, as Ribeiro pulled away over the last half mile. Jeff Smith and Eddie Piscopo also ran fine races, enough to beat Wilmington's Jamie Penny, but not enough to catch Frank Dinsmore.

Dave Kelleher, who is improving every week, cut another 10 seconds off his best time. This was enough to shut down Wilmington's Moynihan, but not enough to catch Dave Trout of the Wildcats. Brian Tremblay also made a strong showing and a lot of improvement to take 10th place.

Despite all these great runs, when the scores were tallied up, Wilmington had the winning low score in a 26 to 29 contest.

One of the highlights of the meet was the outstanding performance of several Tewksbury JV runners. Jeff Parsons won the JV race by cutting a minute off his time to record an outstanding 16:37, a time good enough to have made him competitive in the varsity race.

Eric Meininghaus, who finished fourth and Keith Bennett, who finished sixth, also cut their times. Meanwhile a newcomer to the TMHS squad, Chuchen Fukoda cut 23 seconds off his time and showed that he also has a bright future in cross country.

As the two teams headed home in the darkness last Wednesday, everyone, especially the coaches, felt they had seen some very fine cross country running and personal qualities in all of the athletes that are admirable.

Sports editor's note: This copy was submitted by TMHS cross country coach Bob MacDougall.

Iron Lady a lift for women

Ed Kehoe of Iron Lady in Woburn says the most asked question is "Will lifting weights make my muscles grow?" The answer is "Stronger and firmer yes; bit and bulky no!" The Iron Lady program is designed to firm and tone every muscle in a woman's body. No other form of exercise can accomplish this. Women who lift weights as a profession do so for two reasons. First to compete in body contests. Second to compete in strength contests. Consider this. If there was a better way to accomplish their goals wouldn't they use it? Their income is based on how strong they are and how they look. They, like you and me, would find the shortcuts if they could. Pumping iron makes it happen for them and it can for you. The major difference is time. Iron Lady asks for 30-40 minutes three times a week. We also include a 20-30 minute aerobic workout on a Tuntori Ergometer. An aerobic workout is a heart and lung exercise that raises your pulse rate to 70 percent of its maximum rate for at least 20 minutes non-stop. Many exercises can elevate your pulse but very few people can sustain an exercise non-stop. Can you run 3 seven minute miles? Can you swim full tilt for 25 minutes? Very few people can.

Now let's consider Iron Lady's benefits for women through weight lifting. Number one, it is the safest form of exercise. It's non-competitive and can be done by yourself and at your own pace. Eight or ten repetitions of the same movement on a machine or with free weights can exhaust a muscle. Every fiber, every layer. Deep into the muscle sheath. Your blood will then cleanse the muscle in 60 seconds. Then you proceed to the next exercise. All this is done in a clean comfortable spa. No weather problems and no exposure to the elements. When this is done under our personal supervision you can strengthen your leg and arm bones, you reduce the risk of heart disease and control so-called middle aged spread. The older you are the more you need exercise. It is actually dangerous for women over 50 not to exercise. Osteoporosis, the curse of older women, can be combated by vigorous activity. Lastly, sweat inducing exercise is the best way to become and remain attractive long after sedentary women have lost their flush of youth.

No time's right for home repairs

A friend of ours who recently purchased his first house stopped by the other afternoon, and related the following:

If you're a home owner, particularly the proprietor of a house more than twenty years old, you'll appreciate what I'm about to say: that home repairs always seem to come at the most inauspicious times. Home improvements are supposed to be planned. At least that's what I thought. But when the roof springs a leak during a hurricane, say, you're not prepared for the aggravation and expense you are suddenly going to face to get it repaired. Hey, that's the chance you take when you buy a house, especially an old one, right?

Well, that's what I figured when I purchased the 30-year-old Colonial Garrison in which I'm living now. I was willing to take those chances, mind you, for the opportunity to not have to shell out heavy rent anymore. But I never realized just how much aggravation, expense and work can be involved in keeping up my old house. The handful of friends of ours who went the condo route weren't so crazy after all. While I'm hanging around the house on a Saturday morning, waiting for the roofer to show up to fix that leaky roof, they are making plans to hit Good Harbor for the day.

Waiting is the buzz word. I have to wait for every darn repairman in the Yellow Pages because, frankly, I'm about as handy as a senile monkey with a Philips screwdriver in his paw. I'm Joe Cocker when it comes to putting together a marketing proposal for a computer company, but forget trying to repair that leaky roof. I'd end up rolling off the roof and spending six weeks in traction.

Let me tell you how the whole leaky roof incident happened, because I really did suffer a leaky roof recently. Well, not a roof, exactly. Well, you'll get a clearer picture as I go on. The story of my recent string of bad luck around the house began last month when hurricane Gloria cut her devastating path through New England. As soon as I got the word that we were definitely in store for a clobbering I began to assess the situation at my house.

First I secured all the storm windows. I didn't bother crisscrossing them with masking tape. I never saw much use in that, so I decided to take my chances that none would break,

Fall celebration at Grotonwood Day

How about an icy dunk?

By JIM ROULLARD

If plunging temperatures are a cause for dismay — how does the thought of an autumn dip into icy water grab you?

With one of the finest falls in recent memory approaching its midpoint, and the finger of mercury inching inexorably below freezing at night, it's time to button up the house for winter, think warm and cozy, and be grateful for unquestionable signs of progress, like the rule of enlightened law — and the abolition of the ducking stool.

An ancient Oriental technique, based on the principle of opposites, is designed to make you feel cooler by drinking something hot, and warmer by drinking something cold.

With that principle in mind, try to forget the oncoming winter, and warm yourself now with thoughts of being bound, helpless, to a chair which is plunged repeatedly into the frigid waters of Horn Pond in Woburn or Wakefield's Lake Quannapowitt.

The process is said to be very good for the circulation — provided it doesn't stop the heart.

Now, a gentler descendant of the ducking stool — the ducking booth — is being used locally as a means of raising money.

The fiendish ancient practice, devised as a punishment in centuries past for scolding women, witches and prostitutes, and brought with some of the first settlers into New England, has been revived in recent years, by a number of typically benign groups — including American Baptists — and has even been encouraged by a Wakefield woman, in the hope of raising scholarship funds.

But don't be dismayed. Wakefield's Kathy Swindlehurst is not about to inflict on others something she would not submit to herself, so she was among the first to volunteer for the modern version of ducking, used only on the healthy, the young and the willing, and on men as well as women.

Among the sites for resurrection of this modern version of the old punishment are local summer and autumn carnivals and fairs, on the grounds of the Tewksbury State Hospital, and, in this instance, at Grotonwood, a large acreage of pond and pines, located in the town of Groton, and owned by the American Baptist Federation.

The chilly, chastening process of ducking volunteers — witnessed in the fall at the facility's "Grotonwood Day" — has in the past been one of the most popular activities of the family affair, which brings hundreds of people from all over New England, to a combined chicken barbecue and flea market, with autumn hayrides, home-made pies, roadrace, archery contest, tug of war, scavenger hunt, the upbeat sound of wholesome Christian rock — and ducking.

Does the principle of opposites work? Are you any warmer by considering this old British method of frigid punishment for scolding women — later used as well by the good Yankees of New England?

I was vividly reminded of the ducking stool by Ms. Swindlehurst, during a brief interview on an October day among the Grotonwood pines.

Several young, athletic counselors at the complex — which provides year-round retreats and other activities for a wide variety of groups — had volunteered to sit on a small seat,

Wilmington senior topics

Dr. Leavitt to visit Center
Podiatrist Dr. Leavitt will be at the Center Friday, Nov. 8 to check and treat ailments of the feet. The doctor will remain at the Center until all seniors waiting to see him have been tested. It is suggested that those who wish to see him arrive after 9 a.m. and get a number at the desk. Medicare, Medicaid or other insurance cards should be presented.

Senior fair Nov. 30
The Senior Fair will be held at the Senior Center at Wilmington Plaza Saturday, Nov. 30 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Craft articles for the tables - knitted, crocheted, embroidered, metal and woodworking are still needed. Mittens in all sizes are in constant demand, especially as the fair will be only a few weeks before Christmas. Gloves for men have been asked for other years. If any senior can knit this type of hand covering it would be appreciated. Other articles for chances and the white elephant table are also needed as well as goodies of all types, candy, cookies, cupcakes, brownies and pies will be most helpful.

Spaghetti dinner dance
The Buzzell Senior Center Renovation Committee will hold a spaghetti dinner dance at Sons of Italy Hall Thursday evening, November 21 beginning at 6 p.m. The dinner, salad, dessert, beverage, with music for dancing by Jim Blute is reasonably priced at $4.00 per ticket. It is hoped that seniors will purchase a ticket and persuade families to attend this family evening planned by the Renovation Committee. Tickets can be purchased from the committee which includes Lillian Brown, Mae Cannizaro, Ann Knowlton, or Louise Miceli at the office.

Buzzell Center looking good
The Buzzell Senior Center is looking beautiful inside. It is almost completely finished, thanks to Henry Bergman and his student carpenters from Shawheen Tech, Roy McClanahan and his employees from the Wilmington Maintenance Dept. Rep. Jim Miceli obtained a donation from General Electric Co. for the two large bathrooms, all handicapped accessible and a small bathroom off the nurse's room. That facility has all new fixtures and accessories, plastering and painting the ceiling and walls and a floor covering. We have been continually asked by seniors when we are going to be able to help. Rep. Miceli who was successful in obtaining a donation from the Carpenter's Union Local 41 to single the roof and take out the large window, boarding up the building for us, is now asking the Painter's Union to paint the outside of the building. Seniors would like to help him. For the past few weeks some seniors have been replacing very damaged clapboards, which means we have many new clapboards to prime. Many more clapboards have to be scraped. If we could get enough seniors who can scrape and prime the building all Jim would do is ask the painters to put the finish painting on the building. This weekend is a long one, and if some men show up it could be finished, readied for the painting. Call the center if you can give this task a few hours. You will have to take your own scraper or paint brush.

Monday holiday
Monday, November 11 is a holiday. The center will be closed. Please make appointments accordingly.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending November 5, Wilmington Police Officers responded to 20 alarms, eight accidents, 10 disturbances, two fires, made seven arrests and two protective custody detentions.

Alert neighbors reported three incidents of suspicious activity, two domestic problems were quieted, two break and entries were investigated and one threat complaint was logged.

Seven larcenies were reported, one trespassing complaint was taken and 15 incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Warrant arrests included Michael Ryan of Crescent Avenue, Melrose who was arrested Wednesday morning when a computer check revealed an active warrant issued by MDC police. He was turned over to MDC officers.

Wednesday evening a North Reading man was arrested after his car narrowly missed a cruiser as he exited from Route 93 onto Concord Street. Keith Laughlin, 270 Main St. was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, failing to keep to the right, and operating without a license in his possession. He was arraigned Friday in Woburn Court where his case was continued to November 15. Officer McCue made the arrest.

Thursday morning Officer White arrested David Payette of Peters Pond Road, Dracut after a routine traffic stop and computer check revealed a warrant issued by Tyngsboro Police.

Thursday night a New Hampshire man was arrested by Officer David McCue after he was observed driving erratically. Timothy Igo of South Policy Street, Salem was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and operating after his right to do so in Mass. had been revoked. He was arraigned Friday in Woburn Court where his case was continued to November 15.

Officer Jim Peterson arrested Robert Porcella of Lake Street,

Wilmington on a default warrant Friday. He was taken directly to Woburn Court.

Friday evening Officer Jon Shepard arrested Robert Gorman, 17, of Cochrane Road, Wilmington charging him with possession of a Class D controlled substance.

Early Saturday morning Michael Micalizzi 26, of Burnap Street was arrested by officers King and Shapard. Micalizzi was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and failure to keep right.

Officer Jim White arrested David Harrison of Glendale Circle, North Chelmsford early Monday on the basis of a warrant issued by State Police in Weston.

Sunday a resident of Nichols Street turned in a package to the police station that someone had lost. The package was a baby shower gift wrapped in silver paper and addressed to Tammy. Anyone knowing who can identify the owner is urged to contact Deputy Nally at the station 658-5071.

Minnie Minstrals at AARP on Friday

The almost 400 members of Melrose Chapter AARP No. 1124 Inc. will be in for a light-hearted treat at the Friday, Nov. 8 meeting. President Signe Bickell of Reading will open the meeting at 1:30 p.m. at the Melrose Highlands Congregational Church, 355 Franklin Street, Melrose. Following a short business meeting, Program Chairman Leonard Gabhard will introduce Norm Conrad's Mini-Minstrals, featuring Mr. Tambo and Mr. Bones, a comedy act.

At the previous meeting, Bill Keating of Wakefield, the chapter's legislative reporter, urged the members to write their congressmen and senators regarding their opposition to proposed cuts in affordable housing for the elderly. Foster Ford, vice president and Tours chairman, announced plans for a Feb. 26 day trip. This will be a bus trip to Amesbury Dinner Theatre to see "I Do, I Do" with a buffet lunch, with all expenses included for $20. Tickets will be available at the December and January meetings.

The last remaining tickets for the Dec. 13 (Friday) Christmas Party lunch at Towne Line House in Lynnfield (11:30 a.m. arrival time) can be picked up at the November meeting. Call Kay Kennedy at 322-7313 for reservations and further information on meal choices.

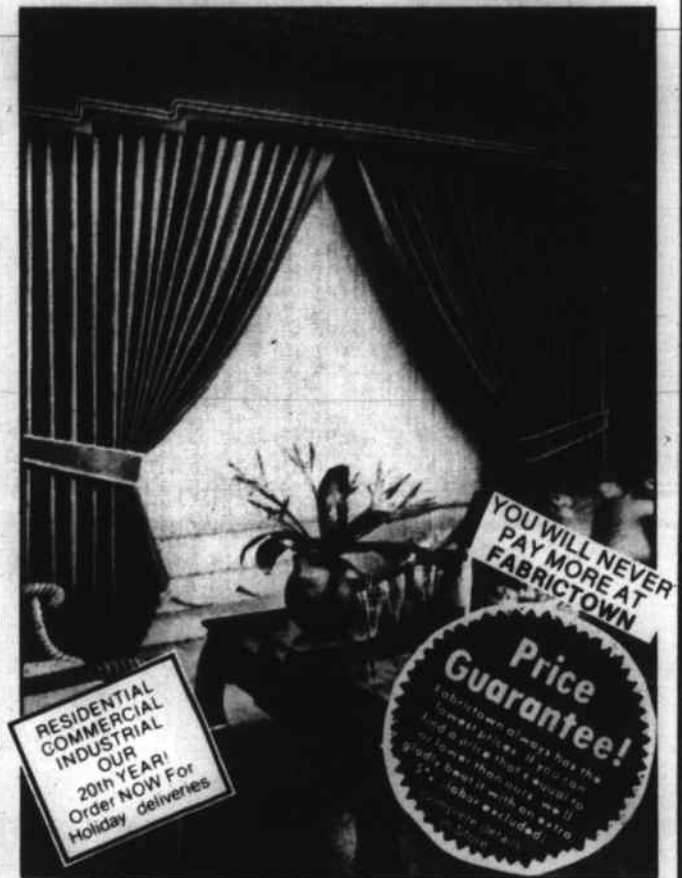

The members present enjoyed a comprehensive tour of old to new Boston given by Betty McCarthy of "Boston By Foot." Hospitality Chairman Eleanor Spurr of Melrose and her committee served refreshments after the program.

Melrose Chapter AARP No. 1124 Inc. is a regional chapter and includes Melrose, Lynnfield, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield. Meetings are held on the second Friday of each month, September through June. If there is no school in Melrose, there will be no AARP meeting. Dues ($3) for 1986 are now payable at any meeting. New members and guests are always welcome. Call Membership Chairman Helen Fazio at 438-3473 for more information.

TRIVIA

The oldest known remains from a ritual cremation are the 26,000-year-old bones of a young woman. Known as Mungo I, they take their name from the dunes near Australia's Lake Mungo, where they were discovered in 1968, National Geographic reports.

MARIAN COURT

Registrations are now being accepted for degree program and continuing education courses in the Evening Division at Marian Court Junior College of Business in Swampscott.

The next ten-week term will begin on November 12 and run through January 23, 1986 with classes meeting on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

The Evening Division offers Associate Degree two-year Administrative Office Assistant, Executive Secretarial, Information Processing, and Legal Secretarial programs as well as one-year Advanced Secretarial and Information Processing programs.

Courses scheduled to run during the November through January term include Introduction to Microcomputers (on IBM P/C), Speech Communications, Basic Gregg Shorthand II, Typewriting I and II, Word Processing Applications I and II (on the IBM Displaywriter), Principles of Management, and College English Composition I.

Registration will continue through November 7. Tuition for each three-credit course is $195 with an additional $25 lab fee for the Word Processing, Computer, and Typing course.

For further information contact Ms. Denise I. LaMontagne, Director of the Evening Division, Marian Court Junior College of Business, 35 Little's Point Road, Swampscott, Ma. 01907 or call 595-6768.

VEGETARIAN STYLE

"Save the bones for Henry Jones, cuz Henry don't eat no meat" are the lyrics of a song popularized by the Pointer Sisters in the early 70s. If Henry could attend the International Vegetarian Cooking classes, Nov. 20-Dec. 11, he could throw the bones away and enjoy a variety of tasty non-meat meals.

Taught by registered dietitian, Julie Marcell, the class will give students a chance to "cook along" and sample four types of ethnic cuisine: Mexican, Italian, Chinese and Greek. Besides demonstrations, lectures and films, low-fat and low-cholesterol recipes will be given to participants.

The class will meet in the home economics classroom of Greater Boston Academy, which is located on the grounds of New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham. The meeting time each Wednesday is 7 to 9 p.m. The fee for the four week course is $35.

For more information, call 665-1740, ext. 426.

HOLIDAY QUILT SHOW

Burlington Quilter's Guild 4th Annual Holiday Quilt Show and Boutique will be held on Friday, Nov. 8, 5 to 9 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 9, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Ethan Allen Gallery, Route 3, Cambridge St., Burlington. Free admission.

CONCORD ORCHESTRA

Audition appointments are now being made for the Concord Orchestra Young Artists Competition, to be held Wednesday and Thursday evenings, Jan. 15 and 16, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. in Concord, Mass.

The competition is open to any young person of high school age or younger, living in eastern Massachusetts. The winner will be the featured soloist at the Concord Orchestra concerts, under the direction of Richard Pittman, on Friday, March 21, and Saturday, March 22, 1986.

All instrumentalists, including pianists, are eligible. Music chosen for the audition should be a concerto, or other such work suitable for performance with the orchestra, and should be prepared in its entirety by the time of the audition. Each person auditioning shall bring his/her own accompanist. Excluded from the competition repertoire will be Haydn's Cello Concerto in C.

Audition appointments will be made by Mrs. Rose Ruzze, Concord Green, Concord, Mass., telephone 369-2396.

STUDENT SERVICES

The Student Service Center is a student-run information center which is available to help students, teachers, and parents with questions or problems concerning students' rights and educational issues. The center can provide information on such subjects as the responsibilities of student council members, rights of eighteen year olds, discrimination, and regulations pertaining to school records. We also have extensive and recently updated college files, which include information, sample applications, and financial aid pamphlets on colleges throughout New England and New York. In addition, the center has topic files containing articles, fact sheets, and pamphlets on subjects ranging from substance abuse prevention education to teenage pregnancy and draft registration. Anyone should feel free to phone, write, or drop by the center, located at the Northeast Regional Education Center, 219 North Street, North Reading, Ma. 01864. Please call 664-5723 (ext. 30) with any questions you may have concerning students' rights, educational laws and matters, or requests for information.

CANTATA SINGERS

The Cantata Singers open their 1985/86 performing season with Jephtha, a dramatic oratorio by George Frideric Handel, under the direction of Music Director David Hoose. The concert takes place on Wednesday, November 20th, at 7:30 p.m. in Sanders Theater at Harvard University. Tickets are $14, $11, $8 and $5 (discounts for students and seniors at the door). Call 437-0231 for information.

EVENING OF SONG

An Evening with Father Strahan — St. Charles Womens Club is planning "an evening of song" featuring Father Frances Strahan at St. Charles Auditorium in Woburn on Wednesday, November 13th at 8 p.m.

Icy dunk

poised above a wide-mouthed container of water which had been left out all night to chill. For a mere half-dollar, passers-by could have three tries at hitting a small bull's eye with the throw of a baseball. A perfect hit released a lever, dropped the seat, and plunged the victim into the cold tub of water.

How cold?

"We didn't measure the temperature," Kathy Swindlehurst said, "but it got pretty cold last night, and I'm glad to be renting the baseballs, and not sitting above the tub."

I didn't measure the temperature of the water, either — though I got an invigorating splash when trying to get a close-up photo — but if the day was marginally warm, the water wasn't, and a dip into the container could have been pleasant for no-one but a South Boston Brownie.

Yet the youthful good health and good nature of the counselors seemed sufficient insulation against the cold, as young men and women volunteers took turns on the seat — to provide hilarious diversion for the crowds, who cheered lustily at each bull's eye hit.

When Kathy was asked what her experience on the stool had been like the previous year, she replied "Why do you think I'm standing here?" and gleefully offered the baseballs.

The ducking stool, fiercer ancestor to Grotonwood's dunking booth, was less benign in its intention and effects, and had nothing whatsoever to do with "charity."

The culprit would be seated in a strongly made wooden armchair (the surviving specimen are usually oak), with an iron band placed around her so she would not fall out during immersion.

"Usually the chair was fastened to a long wooden beam fixed as a seesaw on the edge of a pond or river. . . . Another type of ducking stool was called a tumbrel. It was a chair on two wheels with two long shafts fixed to the axles. This was pushed into the pond and then the shafts were released, thus tipping the chair up backwards." — Encyclopedia Britannica.

An effective punishment? There can be no question it certainly served as a deterrent — sometimes — most notably in cases where the unfortunate victim died of shock.

At Grotonwood Day, the scolding came not from the victim, but from the crowd, groaning in collective disappointment at each miss, enthralled and cheering at each hit that sent a youthful counselor into the chilled water. And no-one seemed to smile as much as the young volunteers.

What was the locals' reaction? Wakefield's George and Kathy Pandiaraj shivered in concert as they watched the procedure, then moved into the dining room for warmth and a chicken dinner. George, raised in the sultry climate of southern India, is more used to winter temperatures of 90 degrees than dips into icy buckets — and Kathy, though raised in northern New England, said she would have little relish for ducking, by stool or by booth.

Stoneham's Jean Kilroy said she felt sorry for the poor person on the "cold-seat," and that there was no way she would volunteer for the spot: "I wouldn't even want to be the one to make the volunteer fall into the barrel. I have other ways to let out my frustrations."

Ms. Kilroy said she and her friend, Lorraine Woods of Wakefield, had more enjoyment taking a boat ride "on the water" during this year's Grotonwood Day, than contemplating being dunked, in water tub or beneath the waves, on a cool gray day in the fall of the year.

ON THE "COLD-SEAT" of the dunking booth, a Grotonwood counselor sits poised for still another dip in iced water — all in the interests of scholarship . . . and fun. (Jim Rouillard photo)

Towne Book Fair open house!

THE TOWNE BOOK FAIR, 225 Main St., Woburn, has recently expanded its gift, stationery and Hallmark card departments and is holding an Open House this weekend, Thursday through Sunday. All are invited to attend.

Retired Federal employees meet

WAKEFIELD — The next monthly meeting of the Albert R. Hodgman Chapter No. 507, National Association of Retired Federal Employees, will be held at the Beebe Memorial Library, Main and Avon streets, on Tuesday, Nov. 12 at 1:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Ms. Renee Sencroff, a Blue Cross-Blue Shield area supervisor.

Appropriately at this time because of the annual open season held by the insurance carriers, Ms. Sencroff's discussion will be of great importance to all federal retirees. Ms. Sencroff has chosen for her subject: Federal Health Plan As It Affects Federal Retirees. She will conclude her talk with a question and answer period.

Also at this meeting, discussion will be in order relative to the Chapter's Annual Christmas Luncheon and Party to be held at the Towne Lyne House, Route 1, South Lynnfield, on Wednesday, Dec. 18 at 1 p.m.

The Dick Brogna Orchestra, Winchester will entertain the diners with appropriate Christmas songs then after the luncheon will play dance music.

Complete details will be included in the Chapter's December Newsletter.

The newly-elected Legislative Officer, Leonard J. Venezia of Wakefield, will brief the members relative to happenings in Washington affecting our organization. Being an interesting, informative and forceful speaker, Venezia gives every indication of being the ideal man to worthily succeed retired Henry J. Carroll, Wakefield.

For four years as President and for six years as Legislative Officer, Carroll worked assiduously and indefatigably for the best interests of the members, the chapter and the organization.

After the meeting, Mrs. Selma Hanscom, Stoneham and Miss Mildred Sherlock, Melrose, will serve the usual collation always enjoyed by the members.

Federal retirees living in this area who are not members are welcome to join this chapter. They can write or telephone President Frank Conley, 300 Mt. View Terrace, Stoneham, (438-6509); or Recording Secretary John Frink, 4 Cherry Ave., Stoneham, (438-0947).

Red Cross bloodmobile schedule

MELROSE — Upcoming American Red Cross Bloodmobiles in the Eastern Middlesex Region are as follows:

Co-chairing the event are Mrs. Margery Guilbeault and Mrs. Nora Donahue. For tickets please call 935-1053 or 935-2979 after 6 p.m. No tickets will be sold at the door due to the expected advance response.

GENEALOGY
The Middlesex County

Chapter of the Massachusetts Society of Genealogists will hold a program and business meeting on Saturday, Nov. 9 at 1:30 P.M. The meeting will be held at the Stoneham Public Library, Main Street, Stoneham and refreshments will follow.

The guest speaker will be Theodore Chase from the Association of Gravestone Studies. He will talk about New England Gravestones.

The society is an organization of amateur, family, and professional genealogists who meet to exchange information about family history. Chapter meetings are held on the second Saturday afternoon of each month in various Middlesex County cities and towns. There is no admission charge and the public is welcome. For more information, call 877-6484 before 8 P.M.

in intensive care units (ICU), operating rooms, pediatrics and other critical care areas. Participants will have the opportunity to meet with recruiters from hospitals and medical facilities from the greater Boston area and throughout the country to discuss current and future job openings from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

There will be a drawing for a $250 Nursing Job Fair Continuing Education Scholarship and free Professional Development Workshops for all attendees at the following times: Experienced personnel on Thursday and Friday at 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 4:30 p.m., and Saturday at 10:30 a.m. and noon; Students on Thursday and Friday at 9 a.m., noon and 3 p.m., and Saturday at 9 a.m.

The Professional Development Workshops give students, experienced nurses and allied health care professionals (physical therapists, lab technicians, respiratory therapists and others), a chance to evaluate their current position and develop long-term career plans at one easily accessible location.

Nursing Job Fair also welcomes individuals who are licensed but retired and contemplating a return to the nursing and allied health care professions.

The Nursing Job Fair is sponsored by Nursingworld Journal, a monthly professional publication. Further information on the convention and publication may be obtained by calling weekdays, (617) 899-2702.

THIN IS NOT ALWAYS IN

Americans have become obsessed with the option that thinner is better. This misconception has led to the increasing number of anorexia and bulimia cases being treated annually.

Dr. Robert Caggiano, psychologist and coordinator, of the Eating Disorders Clinic at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham, will be lecturing on eating disorders — with special attention given to anorexia and bulimia. Caggiano will discuss their causes, symptoms, treatments, and the psychological and cultural factors that contribute to these problems.

The lecture is Thursday, November 14, at 6:45 in NEMH's auditorium. Admission is free. For more information, call 665-1740, ext. 426.

TSL

The Reading Chapter of The Single Life will be holding their monthly dance Nov. 30 at the K of C, Middlesex Ave., Wilmington (behind St. Thomas Church) from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. All singles are welcome. Bring a friend. For more information, call 658-7139.

CLASSICAL MUSIC

Home repairs

that they'd hold up, under the pressure of the strong winds the weather forecast service was predicting we'd get. I checked my roof. I was less confident in its ability to withstand any strong winds we might get. The shingles were old; they'd been replaced more than fifteen years ago, so I'd been told by the former owner before I purchased the house last year. I didn't like the looks of them, but now wasn't the time to think about calling in a roofer to put on a new roof. There was a bigger concern facing me. I put away any lawn furniture I'd left out, and made sure there wasn't anything else hanging around the yard that might become airborne in the storm. Then I went inside to contend with that larger concern. I had noticed during a recent rain storm that the goodsized picture window on my porch had developed a tiny leak along the space between the top of the frame and the window pane. All I could imagine was water from Gloria deluging in and destroying the wall and carpet beneath the window.

I went down cellar and rummaged around until I discovered a roll of duct tape which I'd remembered the previous owner had left behind when he moved. I didn't think it would do much good in the long run, but for the duration of the storm I was hoping it would do the trick.

I lugged a six foot step ladder out the bulkhead, around the back yard to the side of the house with the leaky window. I set up the ladder and then proceeded to stick a strip of duct tape over the crack above the window that was obviously the source of my problem. I felt guilty for doing such a half-repaired job, so I promised myself I wouldn't procrastinate in getting it permanently repaired once the storm passed.

It took about ten minutes to finish placing the iron grey tape over the crack. I went inside, took out a can of beer from the refrigerator and returned to admire my work. It wasn't such a bad job of emergency patch work after all. I popped the beer and gloated over what I'd just done. Darn, I thought, if only all house repairs could be this easy. The sky was bright blue, with scarcely a puffy white cloud to interrupt its majestic perfection. Dick Albert could have fooled me. I never would have suspected a huge storm was about to roar down on us in less than twenty-four hours.

Once you've lived in New England for a while, you learn to listen to guys like Dick Albert. The weather can be as changeable as a hungry cat. The storm came raging down upon us right on schedule. Inbetween watching radar images on channel 5 of Gloria as she raced up the coast towards Massachusetts I kept roaming through the house, nervously looking for weaknesses that might give me a large headache and hoping I'd survive the storm without my pocketbook being ravaged as well.

I managed to survive the first couple of hours of the storm with my house and nerves remaining intact. Then my worst fear came true. All hell broke loose as Gloria intensified to its worst peak. I knew something was going to happen to my house at any moment. I sat in front of the tv, my eyes glued to the screen and my ears in tune with every word Dickie had to say about Gloria's brutal intensity. I noticed, out of the corner of my eye, a big black blob blow past the outside of my picture window.

I mumbled a curse as I hopped up to glance out the window. I had left the curtain drawn so I wouldn't miss anything that might occur in my front yard. On my front lawn was a huge chunk of shingle. Then another came whipping by the window, this one smashing into the side of the house with all the force of a swinging baseball bat.

I won't tell you readers what I said aloud at that moment, but it wasn't very nice. The wind had picked up to the point where even my storm windows sounded as if they were about to rattle clearout of their frames.

I dashed down the hall, through the kitchen and out onto the porch. The duct tape I used wasn't even going to last the duration of the storm. It had already begun to peel off, and tiny rivulets of water were making their way down the window pane and settling in a large puddle on the sill. It would be just a matter of time before that puddle would begin to overflow onto the wall and then onto the carpet. There wasn't even any use in trying to halt the impending damage with towels. There was just too darn much water coming in.

Beyond the window I could see various-sized limbs on the giant oak tree in my front yard snapping off and whipping around the air like feathers before finally dropping to the ground and dragging along until they snagged onto a piece of shrubbery or lodged beneath my car. When the huge bough finally let go, crashing to the ground with the massive crackling roar of lightning, I decided it was time to put on a jacket and drive to the nearest open bar to wait out the rest of the storm.

I managed to find a place open in the next town. I ate a sandwich and watched coverage of Gloria on their tv. When the storm started to let up later that evening, I returned home to reluctantly inspect the damage. I was surprised to discover only a handful of shingles had come loose from my roof, and the leak along the large window on my porch was the only major damage. My yard, on the other hand, looked as though a herd of elephants had come trampling through.

I am still waiting for somebody to come to repair the missing shingles and the leak in my window. I lucked out when I came across a retired fellow who was willing to remove all the broken branches and the downed bough from my yard for a mere hundred and fifty dollars. I was amazed that he'd do it so cheaply, especially since removal of the main shoulder entailed using a chain saw to cut it up into small pieces first. Just watching this guy lug all that stuff away made me tired.

I thought I'd escaped this recent bout of emergency repairs pretty cheaply. Then around a week later I was struck with round two. It began when I stepped in front of my toilet and felt a wet gush beneath my feet. At first I thought the toilet had sprung a leak. I felt around the bottom of the toilet. The water, I discovered, wasn't coming from the toilet at all but from the radiator, which had suddenly burst, next to the toilet. I needed this leak like I needed another hole in my head.

I phoned a local plumber, who came out to the house immediately, made an estimate and promised to return in less than a week. He did, and when he completed the work my pocketbook was three hundred bucks lighter.

I no sooner had the radiator next to the toilet back in running shape when, on that first really cold night we experienced last week, the oil burner kicked in and I noticed it wasn't running smoothly. It made a loud, irregular coughing noise that resembled the beat of a heart murmur I'd once listened to through a doctor's stethoscope.

I finally got hold of my oil burner repairman. He said he'd be out in a few days to check out my burner. I'm hoping it is in need of just a cleaning. Meanwhile, I keep praying it doesn't blow up and burn the house down.

And in the meantime, I keep wondering what's going to go next. The washing machine? Goodness forbid, since I don't think they even make that model anymore, and getting parts would probably be like trying to find parts for a Delorean.

These are times when I wish I could bang a hammer instead of create marketing proposals. Well, there's always "This Old House" on channel 2.

ADIA promotes Spinale

Terri Spinale has been promoted to Office Supervisor for Adia Personnel Services. Spinale had been Service Coordinator for the Woburn office.

Spinale, who joined Adia in March, 1985, will be responsible for managing the temporary employees and servicing client needs for the Woburn office.

Prior to joining Adia, Spinale was a personnel recruiter for a local service company. Spinale, a life-long resident of Burlington, attended Merrimack College and is currently a member of the Woburn Business Association and the North Suburban Chamber of Commerce.

Adia Personnel Services is leading supplier of temporary and permanent personnel with over 175 offices in 28 states. Locally Adia has offices located in Woburn, Cambridge,

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Take in a show!

By William Pacino

Now, between performances, there are more performances.

Since February, 1977, the cast of Marco the Magi's LE GRAND DAVID AND HIS OWN SPECTACULAR MAGIC COMPANY has performed its 2 1/2-hour stage magic extravaganza on the stage of the Cabot Street Cinema Theatre in Beverly, a majestic 800-seat playhouse built in 1920. Year-round on Sundays at 3 PM and selected Saturdays at 8 PM, Marco, Le Grand David and thirteen-year-old Seth the Sensational lead the cast of musicians, singers, dancers, clowns and assistants through half-a-hundred illusions.

Now, between times, the company's all new stage show - "LE GRAND DAVID - IN CONCERT" continues its premiere engagement at the intimate and historic 600-seat Larcom Theatre in Beverly. Conceived and directed by Marco the Magi, and completely different from the Cabot Street production, the Larcom show brings this 1912 playhouse back to life with a veritable "concert" of magic by Marco, David, Seth and performers of the Le Grand David troupe.

Curtain times for the Larcom performances remaining in this calendar year are Saturday, Nov. 16; Sat., Nov. 23, Friday, Nov. 29, Sat., Dec. 7; Sat., Dec. 14; Sat., Dec. 21, Thurs., Dec. 26, Friday, Dec. 27; and Sat., Dec. 28 - all at 1:30 PM. For further information, call the Cabot Street Theatre at 927-3677.

Comedy/mystery

The Gloucester Stage Company, a non-profit organization under the artistic direction of playwright Israel Horovitz, will open its seventh season of contemporary drama on November 14 with the world premiere of Douglas Steinberg's "Nighthawks". This comedy/mystery inspired by Edward Hopper's painting "Nighthawks at a Diner", will be directed by Grey Cattell Johnson. Performances of "Nighthawks" are Thurs. through Sun., Nov. 14 through Dec. 15 at the Blackburn Tavern, Two Main St., Gloucester. All performances begin at 7 PM. For further information and reservations, call 281-4099.

New musical for North Shore

"Hell's Bells", described by author Jackie Vanceltte as a zany, madcap musical in the best of the old vaudeville/burlesque tradition, is being readied for a December opening at Theatre East Playhouse in Salem.

"Hell's Bells" has thirteen original songs and a light plot line for sheer entertainment value. This play will open Dec. 13 for an indefinite run. For further information, call the Theater at 744-1400.

New Musical Romance

On November 29 and 30, the newly organized theatrical company of RAP Productions will begin its season with the premiere of "Lovers Now and Then". This new musical revue features an outstanding cast of local performers who sing and dance their way through half a century of the entertainment world's finest Broadway tunes and love songs.

"Lovers Now and Then" will be presented at the Ramada Inn in Woburn on Friday and Saturday evenings, November 29 and 30. The curtain time is 8 PM and tickets are $8.50. Tickets will be available at the door, or may be purchased in advance by calling Rich Allegretto at 272-9420 (evenings) or Aura Lee McCarthy at 567-0813 (evenings).

Our offerings this week lean heavily on theatre productions, be they in Salem, Beverly, Gloucester or Woburn. But COMING ATTRACTIONS is interested in the full spectrum of events of interest to all. If you have knowledge of a happening, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about. Our sense of drama will be honored.

Adopt a needy family

MELROSE - The American Red Cross through their annual "Holiday Food and Toy Program", and with the support of local individuals and organizations, have been assisting those less fortunate during past holiday seasons.

The 1985 holiday season is fast approaching and we are preparing our list of needy families. To assist in this endeavor, the Red Cross has a few ways to do it: money, of course, is always helpful, a check payable to American Red Cross-Holiday Assistance (please specify for which holiday unless you have no preference) should reach us by November 15.

"You could 'adopt' a family or individual by contributing the necessary food for a holiday dinner," note officials. "The Red Cross serves as a 'matchmaker' by matching your 'holiday dinner' to the number of people in a family."

All assistance is handled confidentially, names are not given to anyone.

For further information please contact the Red Cross at 665-1351.

Wakefield couples open new store

In January of this year, two Wakefield couples embarked upon the transformation of the long vacant Pancake House opposite Pine Banks Park in Malden, into a family style restaurant, serving food of the kind and quality not usually enjoyed outside of the metropolitan Boston area.

Atlantic North Seafood, Inc. opened its doors April 1, 1985 to a large following who formerly had to travel to Boston or along Route 1 for fresh seafood, chicken, and beef dishes comparable to those served daily at Atlantic North.

Owners: Chef David Terry, his wife Cheryl (Brooks) Terry, formerly of Wakefield, and Attorney John Hoare and his wife Tammy (Welling) Hoare, both of Wakefield, spent several months gutting and completely renovating the existing structure. They also added an addition for a fresh seafood market at the rear of the building.

The restaurant and fish market have become an instant favorite of local residents who formerly had to travel to Route 1 to enjoy Chef Terry's skills, which were appreciated by numerous patrons of the New England Oyster House and later the Seawitch Restaurant.

The restaurant has been crafted into a full service, family style restaurant of warmth and charm; featuring the finest in local seafood dishes, prime beef, chicken and numerous other mouth watering entrees, including daily specials. Atlantic North has a full service bar and an extensive wine list chosen to compliment its menu.

Atlantic North's seafood market serves the same ocean fresh seafood as the restaurant. Amongst its numerous offerings are live lobster, lobster meat, swordfish, salmon, haddock, halibut, schrod, shrimp and scallops, just to mention a few. In addition prepared meals to go are available in the market along with frozen entrees prepared daily in the restaurant kitchen. Given advance notice, live lobster is available for shipping countrywide, carefully prepared to arrive live and kicking.

With another New England Winter approaching, Atlantic North Seafood offers local residents a satisfying and convenient alternative to downtown Boston and Route 1.

The proprietors wish to thank their many loyal customers and friends who have contributed so much to the success of Atlantic North Seafood.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

So you received a "Dear John," or "Dear Jane," letter, so what? Don't let a broken romance break you. Sure you feel rejected, shunted aside and humiliated — pick yourself up and discover new horizons, explore other possibilities, travel another road. Remember, there isn't any "one and only," in the world for you, me, or anyone else. Get up, get your chin off of your lap, and forge ahead.

My aunt Celesta, my father's sister, was despondent, a veritable recluse, a hermit after her husband, Angelo, died. She had engraved on his tombstone, "My light has gone out." After more than a year of lonesome purgatory, she met a gentleman at a social affair she could not avoid attending. She married him six months later. "What do I do now?" she asked her clergyman? "Shall I have those words erased?" "Of course not," he answered, "just under the words 'My light has gone out' have inscribed 'I have just struck another match.'"

Please don't tell anyone what ails you. Eighty percent of the people don't care, ten percent of them are glad and the other ten percent aren't listening.

Richard Rebidue, of Lynnfield, told me, "Woodchipper, you're not crazy if you talk to yourself, only if you listen."

Vinny Harrington, of Reading, told me that there is a piggy-back railroad called, "hamtrack."

Jimmy Rataj, of Winchester, is attending a school of architecture. His girlfriend, Roseann Mainero, has "designs" on handsome Jim.

Jim Beebe and his lovely wife Virginia, are ardent readers of Woodchips. They live in Wakefield, where Virginia is well known for the beautiful hook rugs she makes. It's her hobby. My dear mother used to love to make them, then donate them to a church bazaar, where they were sold for a ridiculously low price, so that she worked for about 20 cents an hour. When I reminded her of that she would smile and say "Quiet, this is a labor of love."

My mother was Irish, and she always had a positive attitude. She would look in the mirror every morning and say, "Every day, in every way, I feel better and better." You know folks, it worked for her, because, I don't ever remember a time when she was discouraged or sad. On the contrary she was always smiling, cheerful and singing the whole day long. Ma, you were the greatest.

Bob Cronin worked in a rubber ball factory but he didn't like the way he was "bounced" from one job to another so, he quit.

Sign in a barber shop in Woburn - Square. "Hair cut while you wait." Gee, I thought I was daffy.

Remember when you looked forward to getting the salary that you can't live on today?

Lenny Orlandello, said to me, "Woodchipper, you may be able to speak several languages, but you find it difficult to keep your mouth shut in any one of them." I visited a pet show yesterday and noticed a parrot on a perch. Even he got the best of me, for I asked him, "Hey Paulie, can you talk?" He came right back with "Yes, stupid can you fly?" "You better watch it," I said, "or I'll buy you and make a feather duster out of you."

If at first you don't succeed, look in the wastebasket for the directions.

Why is it that so many people find it difficult to say, "thank you." Send a note, a card, or call on the phone to express their gratitude for some favor, kindness or friendliness shown to them. I even say "thank you," when some one insults me. I received a lovely card from Nancy McCarthy, of Nahant, thanking me for my poems and mentioning her name in Woodchips. Nancy, your note was to me what a live preserver is to a swimmer in treacherous water. God bless you.

A bit frazzled, Sue Nelson told the parents of a fresh five year-old boy she was babysitting for, who came home later than the arranged time, "there's no need to apologize, if Johnny was my kid, I wouldn't be in a hurry to come home either."

I asked John Shea why Rowan Fitzgerald was running out of church? Uncle John smiled then said, "the ushers must have been ready to pass the collection basket."

My wife Kathy bought a bathing suit for a ridiculous figure this summer, hers. She put it on and said to me, "Look, I have the figure of a nineteen year-old girl." "You better give it back dear," I said, "you're getting it all wrinkled." She really had an hourglass figure, but, all the sand has gone to the bottom.

My aunt Maria, from Wilmington, drove into a local gasoline filling station and told the slow poke attendant, "Now I know what they did with the lead that they took out of the gas."

Speed, speed and more speed. Faster, faster and fastest. Fifty-five miles per hour and cars are passing me almost like I'm standing still. I received some hand signals that are not taught in sign language school. I thought these motorists were waving to me but they are not friendly gestures I assure you.

A salesman told my cousin Angelo Quaganti, who was buying a new car, "this car can go 150 miles an hour." I had to leave the showroom, but he did hear me say, "What have we gone stark raving mad?" The supermarket cart is becoming the most expensive vehicle in the world.

Matt Currier, told me that there is one man who has played for the Celtics, Bruins and Red Sox. After I gave up, he said, "It's John Kiley, he's played the Star Spangled Banner for all of those teams."

Everything has its beauty, but not everyone sees it.

Sign in a florist shop, "Light up your life, plant bulbs."

Anglea Cefall, of Winchester, works in a bank. She told a gentleman wearing a ten gallon hat and cowboy boots, "I'm sorry Tex, your wife just beat you in the draw."

On Sept. 28, a 50th anniversary Mass of Thanksgiving was celebrated at St. William's Church, Tewksbury, by Bernard Cardinal Law. Former pastors present were, Father Joseph (Fr. Joe) Blaney, O.M.I. and Father Patrick Hollywood. The new Pastor is, Father George Croft. Father Ron Chaison, O.M.I. was given a fond farewell and best wishes on his new assignment and at the same time Father Michael Amesse, O.M.I. was given a warm welcome. I am happy to say that there are two men of the cloth in my family. They are tailors. On of them, Dave O'Donnell, has cards with CPA on them. He's as nutty as I am so I asked, "Dave, why the title CPA?" "It stands for, 'Cleaning, Pressing and Alterations'" He smiled and added "I sew what you reap."

Benefit magic performance

There will be a benefit performance by Le Grand David and his own Spectacular Magic Company at the Larcom Theatre, 13 Wallis Street in Beverly. This company is a regular guest performer at the White House, and because of its excellence has been written up in Time, The Smithsonian, and Yankee magazines. The performance on Saturday, December 7, at 1:30 P.M. will benefit all of the retarded adults and children at the Hogan and Berry Centers, in Danvers and North Reading. To have your ticket purchase help these people, it must be ordered and paid for by Wednesday, November 6th. The tickets will then be mailed in time for the performance. For further information or to order tickets, call 665-6517.

A FIREPLACE SCREEN THAT PAYS FOR ITSELF?

How? Well, Glassfyre lets you close the doors at night even before the fire is completely out. That keeps a lot of your home's warm air from being drawn out through the chimney — and wasted.

So even though you may not have thought you could afford the world's most beautiful fireplace screen, maybe you can't afford not to have it. Ask us about it.

Train and doll display at Shriner's Auditorium

THE FAMOUS W.C. FIELDS stands at the station where a Lionel 1912 No. 8 Trolley is boarding passengers.

All aboard for the Bay State's biggest action-packed train, dollhouse, and toy show for two days only. Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 9 and 10 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, at the large Shriner's Auditorium, Wilmington, with plenty of free parking.

Join thousands of model railroad, railroadiana, dollhouse, toy and miniature enthusiast as they shop, buy, sell, and enjoy a visual hobby paradise. Greenberg's Show offers selection, quality and cost-competitive prices in friendly surroundings. What better place to prepare for the holidays ahead than at this show where nationally-known dealers offer something for everyone.

Local participating clubs include: the South Shore Model Railroad Club with their handsome HO display, the Mystic Valley Railroad Society, the Boston N-trak Club as well as the Bristol S. Gauge Railroad Club which is proud to be the "world's oldest S. Gauge club."

Dollhouse enthusiasts will delight in Greenberg's Gallery of Fine Homes (in miniature) built and furnished by members of National Association of Miniature Enthusiasts. Look for the entrants in the unique Miniature Treehouse Contest. Craftspeople will sell finely-furnished furnishings of all kinds.

Heritage Houses will demonstrate housebuilding techniques and Tiny Treasures will answer how-to-do-it questions and conduct bow-tying (for Christmas gifts) clinic. Collectible toys and dolls will be for sale, too.

Greenberg's Railroad and Gift Store will offer a large selection of train and collector literature for sale. Free railroad and family movies provide continuous entertainment. Door prizes are announced hourly.

Have a problem with your train or layout? See Francis Stem, at the Test Track for engine testing or technical assistance. Greenberg's giant 48" Lionel layout, and the hand-somely-decorated LGB Gauge 1 layout will give rail buffs new ideas for building their model railroad "empire."

All at Greenberg's Great Train, Dollhouse and Toy Show, Nov. 9 and 10, Saturday and Sunday only, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Shriner's Auditorium. To reach the auditorium, take I-93 to Exit 13, then turn left onto Fordham Road and follow the signs. Free parking is plentiful.

Sat. Nov. 9

"LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL"
A word about our business philosophy: We feel there are three key ingredients that make a fun time. The Disc Jockey, the music and most important of all - you! At our company we try never to lose sight of this fact and our years of experience have taught us that when you do a good job you'll be rewarded with new business. Yes, price is important but as with all things in life it certainly shouldn't be the deciding factor. While we possess some of the most modern equipment available including lights etc., it's really the music that makes the night, which is one reason we do not use pre-recorded tapes or other props - just records, literally thousands at your disposal. Our musical format includes songs from the 20's right up to today's hits. Naturally references are available and we've been critically acclaimed in Boston Globe Magazine and you'll also find us in Boston Magazine as well as local publications. By the way, no party is too large or small, we do them all - from a houseful to a hall full. We are also the wedding specialists. So there you have it. Great music and good times. Isn't that what your next function should be? "Let the Good Times Roll". We play the music of your life. Call Paul Lazzara at 944-4617. You'll be glad you did!
